Glencroft Icelandic Sheepskin Rug Care Instructions

GENERAL CARE – 3 SIMPLE STEPS

1. BEAT AND SHAKE – Take your rug outdoors and give it a very good shake to remove dust and other dirt particles. If required ‘beat’ the rug with a broom handle or similar implement.
2. BRUSH – Brush your rug with a strong ‘slicker’ brush (image right) – you can buy these in pet shops sold as ‘dog brushes’. This will remove dust and also make your rug fluffy again if it has gone a bit flat. It is normal for some wool to come off on the brush.
3. VACUUM – Once shaken and brushed, run a vacuum cleaner over your rug to pick up all other dust and other dirt particles.

We usually find that these 3 steps are sufficient to keep your rug clean for many years without the need for other washing or laundering.

EXTRA CARE FOR DYED RUGS – Highland Coo Brown, Grey, Pink, Red, Green etc

- Do not expose dyed skins to direct sunlight as colour fade and colour change can occur.
- Do not put dyed skins on wet or white / light places, especially sofas, armchairs. Colour transfer can occur.

DRY CLEANING – These rugs are dry cleanable by professional dry-cleaners.

HAND CLEANING – LIGHT STAINS ON HAIR ONLY

Avoid getting the skin of the rug wet, clean the fleece/hair only. The skin can go hard in places if exposed to water.

① Sponge off small stains on the hair using a damp cloth.	④ Comb the wool while still damp.
② If further cleaning is required you can use a damp cloth with a liquid wool cleanser.	⑤ Slow drying will give the best results for your sheepskin rug. Hang to dry over two lines away from direct sunlight or artificial heat like radiators.
③ Mix the liquid cleanser with water and use the FROTH only to clean the hair. Avoid too much water.	⑥ When nearly dry, stretch by hand in all directions and finally to the required shape.

GLENCROFT ICELANDIC SHEEPSKIN RUGS ARE NOT MACHINE WASHABLE.
